

ABILITY MAGAZINE RESOURCE GUIDE

In partnership with ABILITY Magazine, Easterseals MORC is proud to present our guide to many of the resources ABILITY Magazine provides to those in the disability community.

ABILITY Magazine is a multi-award-winning publication, disrupting unconscious bias since 1990 — providing insights into our individual levels of ability.

If you are interested in supporting ABILITY Magazine in their journey of changing public perception around disabilities, you can visit their website at www.abilitymagazine.com and subscribe for a free premium membership now, allowing access to digital magazines, crosswords and their newsletter.

abilityJOBS is the first job board in the nation for people with disabilities. Started in 1995, abilityJOBS allows companies to foster an inclusive workplace by posting positions to the database of job seekers with disabilities.

They have successfully connected thousands of employees. There are over 6,000 registered employers on abilityJOBS and over 127,000 registered job seekers.

ABILITY Job Fair is a virtual and accessible reoccurring career fair. The platform offers in meeting text to chat, video, ASL, closed captioning and more allowing for all abilities to attend. The fair happens bi-monthly and features a variety of national and local businesses that offer both immediate interviews and general networking opportunities to all attendees.

Registration is required to attend ABILITY Job Fair. To register for the next job fair, please visit <https://abilityjobfair.org/register/> abilityE is a disability entertainment talent resource. It allows for actors, musicians, speakers, and comedians with disabilities to promote themselves with resumes, headshots and more for employers looking to hire talent. Only approved casting members are able to locate talent profiles. This portal is free to use for job seekers and is open to unionized, non-unionized, represented, and unrepresented talent.

In addition to ABILITY Job Fair and abilityE, nonprofit ABILITY Corps offers volunteer opportunities in partnership with Habitat for Humanity, building homes for individuals with disabilities and low income. This initiative is a historic first as the volunteers are also individuals with disabilities. This opportunity showcases how people with disabilities are often overlooked as valuable resources for employment and volunteer activities.

If you or someone you know are interested in registering as a volunteer, please visit <https://abilitycorps.org/volunteer-signup/>
